

Urban poor remain a worry for FMCGs; unlock brings hope

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
Mumbai, 29 June

As the second wave of the pandemic ebbs and the daily caseload falls, the struggles of the urban poor have come into focus. Many have suffered income and job losses after two successive waves. The second wave, in particular, has seen the poor being hit hard on account of lack of medical and financial help.

For the fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) companies this has meant that an important segment is under severe distress. To put things in perspective, urban areas contribute 60-65 per cent to an FMCG firms' total sales. The rest 35-40 per cent comes from rural areas, according to market research agency NielsenIQ.

According to experts, half of urban sales or 30 per cent of total sales comes from the urban poor, especially for food firms. While home and personal care companies get 20 per cent of their total sales or a third of their urban sales from the urban poor. Which is why the lack of policy measures for the urban poor hit by the pandemic has been concerning for companies.

"There are no social security or employment guarantee schemes for the urban poor, which exists for the rural poor. Last year, there was a major reverse migration of the poor in urban areas to their villages because of the disruption caused by Covid. There is certainly some policy-level support that is needed to help the urban poor," Sunil Kataria, chief executive officer (CEO), India & SAARC, Godrej Consumer Products (GCPL), said.

NielsenIQ had indicated in May that it was monitoring the drop in consumption closely due to the pandemic across key segments. The ₹4.3-trillion FMCG market had closed the March 2021 quarter with an overall growth rate of 9.4 per cent.

But given how strong the second wave was, said industry experts, the June quarter may see a drop in FMCG growth rate because of localised lockdowns through April and May. The growth rate for the April-June period, according to industry estimates, is likely to be in the region of 5-6 per cent, though the July-September period may see a rebound, touching levels of 10-15 per cent in terms of FMCG growth rate.

Some senior executives say the unlock process does hold hope for the urban poor, since resumption of economic activity will restore jobs and therefore incomes for many. "I see the unlock process offering some comfort for the poorer sections in the urban areas. As businesses resume, the requirement for people will grow, giving some respite to the poor, many of whom are daily wage earners. At the same time, states such as in Maharashtra and Delhi have announced welfare measures recently for the urban poor," Mayank Shah, senior category head, Parle Products, said.

Maharashtra, for instance, had announced a ₹5,746-crore relief package for the economically weaker sections of the state in April, including providing free food, grants to construction workers, rickshaw drivers, and pension scheme beneficiaries. Delhi announced free ration, education, and financial aid for the Covid-affected in May and the Centre too announced distribution of free foodgrains to the poor across the country till November.

Mohit Malhotra, CEO, Dabur India, said FMCG companies may push more low-unit packs into areas dominated by the urban poor. "Companies push small packs into rural areas and large packs into urban areas. But given the stress that the urban poor have witnessed with two successive Covid-19 waves, low-unit packs could be pushed even more into areas where the urban poor are dominant," he said.

SII applies for EU nod via AstraZeneca

SOHINI DAS
Mumbai, 29 June

Amid concern around visits to Europe by individuals who took the jab of Serum Institute of India (SII), company sources have said SII has applied for marketing authorisation before the European Medicine Agency (EMA) through British drugmaker AstraZeneca, its vaccine partner.

So far, 287 million Covishield shots, single and double, have been given in India, and the company has exported close to 70 million doses. SII Chief Executive Officer Adar Poonawalla said on Monday he had taken it up at the "highest levels". If European Union (EU) restriction on Covishield continues, at least a few hundred million people would face challenges entering or travelling within the EU member states.

"We have applied for marketing authorisation to the EMA through AstraZeneca. We will not sell the vaccine in the EU. But, since this is a technicality to ensure that those who got Covishield shots gain entry into the EU member countries, we have applied for marketing authorisation," said a company source, adding that the issue should be resolved within a month or so.

The person added Covishield was recognised by the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency of the UK, and SII has supplied this vaccine to the UK and Canada apart from low- and medium-income countries (LMICs).

SII did not wish to divulge more detail on the matter or whether it had applied through AstraZeneca. ANI quoted an EU official saying, "...as of yesterday, the EMA stated that it had not received a request for approval. It will examine any such request when received..."

Meanwhile, the African Union Commission and the Africa Centres for Disease Control and Prevention have urged the European Commission to consider increasing mandatory access to those vaccines deemed suitable for a global rollout through the EU-supported COVAX Facility.
